

Program Description:

Preserving Family History through Photo Restoration & Repair

As a part of my education and consultation services*, I am offering a presentation in a PowerPoint slide show, illustrating typical damage suffered by vintage photos (tears, fading, discoloration, and the effects of age), and how restoration can renew the photo and help preserve family history. The presentation discusses the available techniques and effective results. I also cover brief examples of editing modern photos. The presentation briefly discusses my services. For consultation, I offer to assess specific photos that the attendees may want to bring to the meeting. Length, 15-20 min., before questions and optional consultation.

Benefits: The program shows participants the kinds of repairs and restorations that are available for their cherished photos and vintage documents, and helps to motivate them to have the work done. I encourage everyone to enjoy their restored photos themselves, while also enriching their family heritage and legacy; repairing damage, to renew features from the past, preserves family history for children and spouses, siblings, elders, and grandchildren.

* From vendor shows that I have participated in I have learned that residents of retirement communities have a strong interest in photo restoration and love to talk about their collections and photos that need work. I have also learned that these projects require a gestation period, from concept, estimate and commitment. This is why I make myself available to help nurture these projects, through consultation, with assessment of damage and repair feasibility, and also cost estimates.
